as we see it

■ Sometime between now and next fall you'll be noticing fewer interruptions for commercials in prime-time programs.

Not fewer commercials—just fewer interruptions. It's all set down in new provisions of the TV Code to be made effective no later than Sept. 15, 1968.

■ The new rules provide for no more than two commercial interruptions within a 30-minute show and no more than four within a 60-minute show. There's an exception: A 60-minute variety program, because it will usually be made up of a series of disconnected acts, may include five interruptions. News, weather, sports and special-events programs are excluded.

There will also be a slight decrease in the total amount of nonprogram material. (This includes commercials, billboards, credits taking more than 30 seconds and promotional announcements.) Current standards permit 10 minutes and 20 seconds of nonprogram material in a prime-time hour. The new standard cuts that to 10 minutes. Rules for nonprime time permit 16 minutes of commercials in an hour.

■ What it all means, the broadcasters who subscribe to the Code hope, is smoother program flow. Advertisers would have preferred cutting down the total time permitted for commercials and leaving the number of interruptions open. It remains to be seen whether the new rules will make a noticeable difference to viewers.

We'll probably be seeing shorter commercials, and more of them, within each interruption—thanks to a recent survey. The researchers compared the effectiveness of 30-second and 60-second commercials and learned that the 30-second commercials are actually just about as effective as the much more expensive 60-second commercials. How about that?

THE BIG WAR IN THE LITTLE BOX

Are Americans confused about Vietnam because they can see the battles on TV?

By Martin Maloney

Like millions of other Americans, I am disturbed by the war in Vietnam. I am not a pacifist, although I think that war in this day and age may prove to be the ultimate disaster. I did spend some time in uniform 20-odd years ago, and in 1950 I thought that Harry Truman was probably right when he decided that North Korea had to be stopped.

But Vietnam is something else again. It's pretty hard to visualize the embattled citizen taking his old rifle down from the mantelpiece and going off to keep Ho Chi Minh's Asian legions from eating Texas chile in the White House. It's even pretty hard to see anyone resembling the old-fashioned conscientious objector in those mobs of demonstrators who occasionally heckle Hubert Humphrey and hiss Dean Rusk. I suspect that the demonstrators, along with many others, are people like me: namely, confused, upset—or, in the current lingo, bugged. I have begun to wonder whether I, at least, am not reacting to a combination quite new in human experience: something which I think of as TVietnam, the big war in the little box, the war brought to me by courtesy of pain-relievers, deodorants and low-cal beverages.

Let me make myself clear. In the first place, I think that TV coverage of the Vietnam war, in the United States, has been professional and conscientious. Given the war, the medium and a special way of handling news, the network news teams seem to me to have done an honest job.

In the second place, I don't mean to suggest that TV has created Vietnam out of whole cloth. The medium is not entirely the message in this case. Still, there may be a kind of fatality in the fact that the first TV war is also the war best—or worst—adapted to TV coverage.

There can be no question that Vietnam is the TV war. The Arab-Israeli conflict, of recent memory, was → not really covered at all while it lasted—partly because the Arabs didn't know what was going on, partly because the Israelis were busy and anyway preferred to leave the event to history. When Korea was fought, the coaxial cable was hardly settled all snug in its bed. The European war of 1939-1945 was the first and last of the radio wars, and the Pacific-Asian conflict of that period was so remote that it was covered by the press only with difficulty and had to wait on the postwar histories and memoirs for full reporting. But the Vietnam war came along in an age of television, of supersonic jets and satellite transmissions, and so is the first—and so far, the only—true TV war. It may persist into a period when, as someone has noted, American parents may sit comfortably before the box in the living room and watch their sons being killed and wounded, 10,000 miles away, precisely while the event is taking place.

If that time comes, I venture to suggest that the parents so blessed by modern technology may react in a peculiar way, simply because the experience is utterly new. They may take these instantaneous images of terror, shock and death as we take so many other images of the TV world—with a sort of nagging, tortured, inward concern which may force them to become participants in the agony of the times. Previous wars were presented to us in the press, on film, in books, even on radio—always well-rationalized, and always after the fact. But a war processed through TV approaches simultaneity; it comes to us now, as a kind of daily puzzle which we must ourselves piece out and understand. This is a frustrating experience. How does it work?

TVietnam is like all TV news: fragmented and repetitious. Any TV news broadcast segments the day into a certain number of items, each presenting a more-or-less dramatic and exciting high point in the diurnal history. Where the event is particularly dramatic, and/or film footage is available, the news broadcaster's narrative account will be followed by a film sequence which presents the event in the most concrete dramatic terms. Naturally, where a given crisis continues, or where a series of similar events occurs, the TV version tends to be highly repetitive. As a fairly consistent viewer of TV news programs, I sometimes get the nightmarish feeling that I have been trapped in a 6 o'clock treadmill: There is nothing new about the news.

The Vietnamese war has been processed through the TV news machinery, and it has gone on for a long time. As a result, it continues, over and over and over again, in a series of vignettes, each one barely meaningful in itself, each one echoing a hundred similar news items past, and perhaps a thousand to come. And then there are the pictures, which effectively reduce the war to the dimensions of a horrid Punch-and-Judy show.

Visually, TVietnam is a small, dim war, fought by puppet-like figures. GI doll images appear in gray-on-gray, struggling through swamps, riding atop toy tanks, firing automatic weapons which go pop-pop-pop. Then there are the omnipresent helicopters, strictly out of Disneyland. Occasionally, we see the figure of the enemy, a willowy, starved-looking mite; occasionally, too, the figures of the dead or wounded, also small and usually sacked up in stretchers or blankets. These scenes occur again and again; the fight goes on forever, seemingly in the same terms; the living, the dead and the wounded are always caught in the same terrifying, miniaturized drama, and they are always very small.

Unless my memory of a similar war, now 20 years past, has betrayed me utterly, TVietnam differs from the realities of combat as much as it does from the earlier press, film, radio presentations of war. To the best of my recollection, a major battle, if you are in it but not immediately involved, gives a feeling of enormous size—the thud and shock of explosions, the roar of engines, stabs of flame, smoke—which reduces you, the observer, to a minute scale. You are a midget in a huge universe of stink and shock and blast. When you become involved—being bombed, shelled, strafed, shot at, trying to find cover, trying to fight back, or hoping that somebody will fight back—this universe contracts into an absolute hell of noise and haze.

The response you make to it is frequently one of wild exhilaration and excitement, and sometimes of absolutely paralyzing fear; the experience of battle is a shocking, shaking experience which cannot ever be forgotten. TV reduces this experience to doll-scale and detaches the viewer from it; the information is all there, but in a faint, weak form, like the signal from a remote satellite. The watcher needs a special scanner to pick up the information at all, and a special amplifier to bring the signal up to understandable strength.

There are other profoundly disturbing aspects of TVietnam. For one thing, the war is almost inaccessible to the human intellect. It appears to be the first multivalued war in American history. In previous conflicts, one could always describe what was happening as a war between Us and Them. But in Vietnam, We were not engaged in warfare at all for a long time (We simply had sent military advisors to the Good Guys), and even today it is hard to tell whether We are at war or not, or with Whom.

In TVietnam, We (or whoever) seem to be fighting the North Vietnamese, who inhabit North Vietnam, and the Viet Cong, who inhabit South Vietnam. Apart from the Viet Cong, the South Vietnamese used to consist of Premier Ky, his wife, and a number of schoolgirls who regularly turned out under guard to throw flowers at Premier Ky on public occasions. Since → the recent elections, they have disappeared from TVietnam, and as far as I can tell, have not been replaced. Frankly, I miss them; I can believe in South Vietnam as a place without them, but I need reassurance as to the people. I don't know what's happened to the South Vietnamese army either; they vanished some time ago, and I miss them, too.

There is also no geographical logic to TVietnam. In World War II the British, Americans, Canadians and others made beachheads at Normandy in 1944 and pressed eastward, toward Berlin. At the same time, the Russians came thundering westward, toward Berlin. Between the two assaults Germany and her allies were crushed, Hitler shot himself, and the war ended. It was a nice, linear, well-oriented war, which made a lot of sense. TVietnam is something else again. In the country proper, there are of course a North and a South, and what is jokingly called a Demilitarized Zone between; but if the war has actually progressed from North to South, or South to North, or in any other discoverable direction, you would never know it from TV. The news broadcasters seem almost to have given up on maps, and may be about to give up on place names. (A mention of "Pleiku," for instance, even reinforced with a map, doesn't tell you how or where the war is going.)

The final solution to the tangle seems to be to reduce the whole war to simple numbers, and to report it rather like a series of baseball games in an endless hot summer. Old Walter, or Chet, or Harry, or somebody, comes on and says: "This was an average fighting week in Vietnam. Opposition casualties: 2473. South Vietnamese: 417. Americans: 201." But the numbers don't mean anything, really; they're like the scores in a game so remote and incomprehensible that you hardly know whether the stake is match-sticks, or home runs, or human lives.

Maybe this explains some of the hypnotic fascination which the war seems to exert on the American imagination, as well as the revulsion and horror. The war inside the box is a monstrosity which every viewer must invent for himself. M. R. James once wrote a short story about a wealthy collector who bought an antique doll's house, elaborately decorated and furnished, which turned out to be haunted in a strange way. Each night the new owner would awaken from sleep and find himself forced to gaze on his new possession, in which the dolls had come to life and were acting out a gruesome drama of greed, murder and spectral revenge. The happy fact about James's doll house was that, once the drama had run its course, the restless spirits which haunted it were appeased, and the device lost its power to fascinate and terrify.

But the war inside the box is never acted out in full; this drama continues, night after night, world without end. Who can seriously believe, watching TVietnam, that the war will actually end? The numbers keep coming in, but nobody knows what numbers, if any, will signal the end of the game.

Somehow, it does not surprise me that people exposed to the big war in the little box protest, complain, demonstrate, cry out. They are suffering the ultimate human discomfort; they need desperately to make sense out of one of the crucial events of the time, an event which eats at them—at their secure existence, at their children, at their sense of what is decent and proper, at the whole fabric of their lives. And the sense is not given them. It simply is not there.

Meanwhile, the news broadcasters, caught between necessity and habit, will continue to produce their box scores. Meanwhile, the discomfort will become more and more painful. The end is not in sight.

Big-screen color tv $299⁹⁵. No fancy cabinet. No fancy price.

When it comes to color tv, lots of people couldn't care less about fruitwood veneers and matching hardwood solids.

They don't want color tv so they can look at fancy furniture. They want color tv so they can look at color tv.

Up to now, they've had to settle for little portables. The kind of color tv you carry around from room to room. With little screens. And little handles on top.

But we've done something to change all that. Made a big-screen color tv that doesn't come in a fancy cabinet. And doesn't sell for a fancy price.

The cabinet is simply what's often referred to as "compact contemporary styling that blends smartly with today's modern room decor."

All of which is just another way of saying that it's straight-line cabinet design.

There's a picture of it here. And we think it looks very nice.

Still, at $299.95* you might wonder a

Some people don't want color tv so they can look at a fancy cabinet.
They want color tv

little just how big the big screen really is. The answer is big. 267 square inches, to be exact. Big enough for the whole family to look at comfortably from the other side of the room.

However, the cabinet is where most of the major difference between this set and many others we make comes to an end. Inside, you'll find a 26,000-volt chassis, a solid-state tuning system, solid copper engraved circuits, pre-set fine tuning, transistorized 3-stage amplifier and balanced color control circuitry. The same components we put in sets costing hundreds more.

Now, to many people that's just a lot of technical stuff that doesn't necessarily make it good. So, if that's a concern of yours, just remember, everything that goes into this $299.95 set is protected by the very same warranty we put on sets costing over $800.

Of course, any questions you have about how big is big screen, and how good-looking is contemporary styling, are all best answered by going to your Philco dealer and taking a look. You'll find big-screen color tv.

Not fancy furniture. And not a fancy price.

Barbara Stanwyck plays a scene the hard way—and comes back for more Usually, you know, these big stars—and Barbara Stanwyck of The Big Valley is, and has been, a big star—have their stunt people take the risks and suffer the bruises, being themselves tender and expensive bodies. Not so, however, in the case of Miss Stanwyck. Over the years Valley has been on the air, she has been battered, bemired, and knocked off a horse heaven knows how many times. A good example of her travail can be seen on these pages, where the hardy lady is pictured doing a "horse drag"—one of the roughest Western stunts. Miss Stanwyck was dragged some 40 feet over rough ground and when it was over the crew discovered that the camera just hadn't captured it. So she did the whole mess again.

JACK PAAR INTERVIEWS

WHAT'S-HIS-NAME

It would not be fair to say that I have always been misquoted by the press. It was more the case of things being taken out of context or purposefully made to seem more provocative than I had intended; and sometimes—too often, I regret—incidents that never happened and had no truth, in fact, being printed and reprinted until they became legends.

Some of this was my fault for being so outspoken, as I had never refused to answer a question in an interview and I hate clichés.

Another fault of mine—it still is, I am afraid—is giving quick, sly answers to questions and people that bore me.

Some of the less flattering things said about me I said myself, only later to find them used against me.

Now that I no longer appear regularly on television [he has a special on NBC, Dec. 6—Ed.], no one, not even Perry Como, Bishop Sheen or Julia Child, has received such praise and kindness as I have known. The three special programs that I have done in the past years have been received by the critics across the country more favorably than any performer in my memory. Either they miss me or, perhaps, are happy to know that I have no plans to return regularly.

I have agreed to answer some questions from myself and, contrary to what you may believe, I am not my greatest fan (there must be millions who like me better). So, here goes.

What have you been doing?

I have never been happier or more content than I am today.

I have no urge to be in show business. I do not miss it nor most of the people in it. There are not enough hours in the day to do all the things I want to do . . . reading, painting, electronics (I have a rather extensive workshop). . . . Mrs. Paar and I travel a great deal,

I have two dogs I love, several cars to work on . . .

I wouldn't change my life for a million dollars a year. As a fact, I have turned down more than that amount. Last week, I was offered $75,000 a week to play Las Vegas and I had to laugh because everyone knows that there's nothing I can do.

Why did you sell your television and radio stations in Maine?

Owning stations is a business and to me not very creative.

One finds himself tied to a desk and dealing with budgets, employees' problems and company policy. It was a most rewarding experience, but I don't want to spend the rest of my life worrying about whether Porky Pig will beat Popeye in the ratings. I think I improved the stations and will miss the people in New England. But now I want to return, again, to Africa and Asia.

Is there any truth to the rumors that you were planning to return to late-night television?

No, and I don't intend to return to the Army, either. I have never talked to any network about a new version of Tonight.

Why did you quit television?

Frankly, because I was not as good as I wanted to be. The excitement was gone; there were too many imitations of what I had once done. Also, the time period [Friday night at 10] that NBC gave me was the final blow. It has always, historically, been the worst hour of the week. This was true in radio, too. Before I was put in that time, NBC had used it for public-affairs and news-type programs. I see that now it has returned to that. Only the Bell Telephone Hour is in there, occasionally, and that's a good time for a company that wants to talk person to person.

Do you believe that you are missed by the public?

Frankly, I do not. I was never an entertainer for the masses, nor did I ever wish to be. It's a Gomer Pyle world. It's a credit to the industry that even occasionally the networks try something better.

In your opinion has TV been a good or bad influence on the country?

Good. . . . I feel our children are far brighter and better informed than we were. Personally, I have never seen a bad television program, because I refuse to watch it. God gave me a mind and a wrist that turns things off. I have never in my life had the need for vicarious entertainment. There are books to be read, interesting friends to talk to, places to see. Why anyone would watch the situation comedies, with their sameness, week after week, with the dubbed-in laughter, I cannot possibly imagine; but, like I said, it's a Flying Nun's world. They're so predictable and I believe are written by a metronome.

You seem to remove yourself from "the people." Isn't that smug?

I don't think so. I am not a member of any religious, social or political group. I am just a person. I believe that the history of public taste is the history of television. It is not, in my view, very high, nor can it be. There have been many wonderful, rewarding moments on television that added immeasurably to our lives, but they failed to get even a passing rating.

Still, if one is selective and is informed by the program listings, television has so much to offer. But the average person turns the dial till he hears laughter (which is phony) and he reacts like he's being entertained. Even the so-called "live" shows are using canned laughter. I have heard writers say at a rehearsal: "If it's not funny, we can fix it in the control room." George Orwell was right . . . Pavlov was right . . . and so was Barnum.

Do you feel you can walk on the water?

I have never tried. . . . I did go down to the Hudson River once and think about it, but then I decided that even if I could, I would only end up in Newark and I wasn't going to get the soles of my socks wet just for that.

This is sort of a standard ques- →

In a cartoon last year the caption read: "I seem to be able to get along without Jack Paar but I do wonder what happened to Miriam and Randy."

Well, on the day I am writing this, Miriam and I have been married for 24 years. Next year I am going to buy her a silver halo. Among the more sensible things I have heard in a church were my own words: "I do!" My happiness and good fortune come from this happy marriage. Randy is majoring in economics, Chinese history and foreign government service. She is a most unusual child and my closest friends know Randy raised me.

Would you comment on the many imitations of "The Tonight Show"?

I am not a very regular viewer of this late programming. But I would say that no one could have been more successful than Johnny Carson. He is a fine performer. But he started with 180 stations and followed the most successful commercial show in television. Joey Bishop, a fine wit, started with few stations and a small audience. Merv Griffin had to begin from zero. Griffin has, in my view, the best-booked show and he obviously has read a book. Joe Pyne falls into a transparent trap of fakery. The kooks are annoying and unnecessary and seem to be in need of psychiatric care, not television exposure. Pyne has a mind and an interesting vocabulary but has sold out to the tabloid approach. The worst is Alan Burke. What he lacks in charm and wit, he balances with bad manners. He obviously has seen some Clifton Webb movies and thinks that makes him interesting. He's really "high camp" and is the Tiffany lamp of television.

Mr. Paar, when you were on "The Tonight Show," you were considered controversial. Do you feel that you were?

About what?

About everything.

Well . . . yes . . . if you're gonna narrow it down like that . . .

Did you mind the hours on the old "Tonight Show"?

No, but the minutes were murder.

Which conversationalists in your opinion were the most amusing?

By far the British . . . Peter Ustinov, Robert Morley, Malcolm Muggeridge and Richard Burton. . . . The late Alexander King was the most articulate and amusing American.

Which guest, out of all the guests you've had on your many shows, did you enjoy the most?

Calvin Coolidge.

Wait a minute. Calvin Coolidge died long before you were on TV.

I know. I had to do all the talking. It was heaven!

THE DOAN REPORT

ABC Plans More Taped Dramas

ABC's first two movie-length taped dramas, "Johnny Belinda" and "Dial 'M' for Murder," were so popularly received this fall as "Movie Night Specials" that the network already has ordered up more of same for next season. The nod has gone, though, to producer Hubbell Robinson (ABC Stage 67, etc.) rather than to David Susskind, who is turning out eight of these dramas for the current season. For openers, Robinson has signed Helen Hayes, Lillian Gish and Boris Karloff for a remake of the durable "Arsenic and Old Lace." It will be taped in March at ABC's newly color-converted West 66th St. studios in New York. Robinson hopes to line up seven more such productions for 1968-69. Whether Susskind is to contribute any next season, considering the success of his first two movie-length dramas this fall, remains to be seen. Meanwhile, he has just acquired for this season's roster a Broadway play, "A Case of Libel," by Henry Denker. It will be taped in New York in January, for showing in March, with a star-laden cast: José Ferrer, George C. Scott, Angie Dickinson, E. G. Marshall, Anthony Quayle, Lloyd Bridges, Marc Connelly and George Grizzard.

Richard S. Salant, president of CBS News, declines to confirm reports in recent days that the network has given up the idea of expanding Walter Cronkite's evening news to an hour nightly. "I wouldn't say that," he advised. At the same time he conceded it might not happen "day after tomorrow." The problem: Starting the news half an hour earlier would gobble up time locally programmed, something the affiliated stations flatfootedly oppose; extending Cronkite half an hour later would eat into network prime time and undoubtedly cost CBS some audience (hence, ratings), since entertainment most often outpulls news. Chances of CBS's rivals blazing the hour-long news trail are not great. NBC's management is described reliably as not interested in doubling Huntley-Brinkley's spread, except in the event CBS makes such a move. ABC was last in going even to half an hour.

Jim Aubrey, the onetime CBS-TV czar, paid a return visit to his former domain the other day to try to sell the network three new series ideas, two of them situation comedies (one starring Bob Denver of Gilligan's Island), the third a detective yarn titled Kool. CBS's present programmers did not find Aubrey's wares inviting. Nor, according to reliable sources, did the other two networks.

The Carol Channing and Debbie Reynolds specials ABC had to postpone because of the two-month long technicians' strike will not be seen until early next year, Carol's on Feb. 29, Debbie's sometime in March.

LETTERS

Correspondence for this department should be addressed to Letters Department, TV GUIDE, Radnor, Pa., 19088. All letters must be signed. Names withheld upon request.

VIEWER SERVICE

If you wish to write comments to those in charge of a specific show, you should send your letters to: (Name of Show), TV GUIDE Viewer Service, Box 800, Radnor, Pa., 19088. These letters will be forwarded to proper executives.

UNEQUAL FACILITIES

Tonight on The Ed Sullivan Show we heard "An Open Letter to My Son"—a song commonly held to be in support of the war in Vietnam. Earlier this fall Pete Seeger appeared on The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour and CBS deleted from his act "Big Muddy"—a song commonly held to protest our commitment in Vietnam. What makes CBS think that this is responsible broadcasting?

Carolyn H. Sawyer
Norton, Mass.

PROTEST

An open letter to the producers, directors and instigators of "Miss Teenage America Pageant": In the interest of fair play, correctness and technical accuracy—since there were no contestants of black, brown, tan, yellow or reddish hue in all the 64-odd young ladies—it would seem only proper that such an affair be titled the "Miss White Teenage America Pageant."

G. Donald Lovett
Birmingham, Ala.

REBUTTAL

Having become satiated viewing TV coverage of dirty hippies, riots, drug users and ungrateful kooks and their insufferable behavior, it was encouraging and uplifting to see and hear the CBS presentation "Miss Teenage America Pageant." It is good to realize that our country is not all delinquent and that refinement and good taste still have a place in our land.

Alfred S. Brand
Culpeper, Va.

REAL

Don't know why there should be any furor over PBL. It said it wouldn't pull any punches, and it doesn't. Even my husband and I, presumably "enlightened Northern liberals," found PBL's racial play to be strong stuff. But we'd have been more upset to hear that such a play had been canceled for fear it might offend.

Ann B. Hahn
Easthampton, Mass.

AWARDED

Leslie Raddatz failed to mention one important fact in his Nov. 18 article, "Star Trek Wins the Ricky Schwartz Award." Star Trek received one other important award besides the Ricky Schwartz. The two-part episode "The Menagerie" won the Hugo Award for best science-fiction drama in 1966.

James A. Juracic
Fruitvale, B.C.

TYPE CASTING

Is there any truth to the rumor that, with election year coming up, some of the candidates may seek extra exposure via hosting TV shows? To wit: The Wild Wild West or Mission: Impossible—Ronald Reagan; Family Affair—Bobby Kennedy; Lost in Space—Hubert Humphrey; Run for Your Life—Richard Nixon.

THIS WEEK'S MOVIES

THE BRASS BOTTLE (NBC), Saturday
KING RAT (ABC), Sunday
IF A MAN ANSWERS (NBC), Tuesday
CASANOVA'S BIG NIGHT (ABC), Wednesday
UNDER CAPRICORN (CBS), Thursday
TICKLE ME (CBS), Friday

In some areas network movies may not be seen on the days indicated.

It's a star-watcher's week on the network-movie circuit with a number of demonstrations of the survival of the fittest performers in the face of the least material. At very least there's variety, with someone for everyone.

James Fox and Tom Courtenay are the undoubted stars of "King Rat," the week's top quality film, a grim story of survival in a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp that is faithful to the details, if not the moral probing, of James Clavell's fine novel. George Segal is a bit slick in the title role but with excellent supporting performances by John Mills, Patrick O'Neal, James Donald and Alan Webb, among others. The film emerges as a series of vivid, frequently shocking and occasionally brilliant scenes of undeniable power.

Ingrid Bergman and Margaret Leighton are for watching in "Under Capricorn" as a conscience-stricken heroine driven to drink and an evil governess who does much of the driving. This talky, murky, super-melodramatic Hitchcock film is among the director's lesser works (although "lesser" Hitchcock still provides the occasional mark of the master), and it takes the ladies, with noble assists from Joseph Cotten and Michael Wilding to keep this psycho-and-soap-opera about gentlefolk and convicts in 19th-century Australia out of the bogs.

If there are bogs to be avoided Bob Hope is the past master of fancy footwork for the task. So spry and sprightly is the eternal Hope in "Casanova's Big Night," in fact, that he makes this relatively bland burlesque of romantic costume dramas very good fun, with inspired slapstick and contagious enthusiasm more than compensating for the lack of bite in the satire. And Joan Fontaine's quite a compensation on her own.

For the rest, dedicated fandom is required. Elvis Presley fans are, of course, dedicated a priori and will find "Tickle Me" again embodying their notion of what they describe in regular letters of protest to me as "clean, wholesome, nonviolent family entertainment." In this one Elvis is a ranch hand on a beauty-spa dude ranch populated by scantily-clad cuties who swoon over Elvis. He sings nine songs and gets the one girl who plays hard to get.

Sandra Dee plays neither that nor much else in "If a Man Answers," a lame, thudding pseudo-comedy about a marriage-hungry teen-ager who hooks a man and keeps him under the guidance of her French (oo-la-la) mother. Obviously for fans of Miss Dee and Bobby Darin, who plays the victim, the film falls flatly into the tickle-and-tease-for-teens category of tasteless nonsense.

And finally fans of Tony Randall and/or Burl Ives can exercise empathy while watching them suffer through "The Brass Bottle," involving an architect and a bothersome genie. True fans will mercifully put the stopper back on this one.

Is the Church of Christ a Denomination?

WHEN we read about the church described in the New Testament we are impressed with the fact that it is not a denomination or sect or religious party. This church is simply the "called out," the saved ones who have obeyed the gospel of Christ and are walking in the way of Christ. Wherever the Word of God is preached and men believe and obey its message, you will find the undenominational church of Christ! Jesus said: "The seed is the word" (Luke 8:11). In our modern world the word "denomination" has become synonymous with the Bible word "church." This is most unfortunate because the church which fits the New Testament description must be "non-denominational." It will have no head but Christ, no earthly headquarters, no requirements for admission other than those laid down by Christ, no name but the names used in the New Testament, no organization other than the simple order described in the Scriptures. Christ wants all his followers to be just Christians, nothing more and nothing less. He does not want them divided into "sects," "denominations," "parties" with rival names, creeds, loyalties, and organizations.

The church of Christ is non-sectarian. It is the body of Christ, the kingdom of Christ, the bride of Christ. Wherever men obey the gospel of Christ as they did on Pentecost, God adds them to the church (Acts 2:47). As Christians they are bound together by their common loyalty to Christ and love for the brethren everywhere.

6 7 8 9 COLLEGE FOOTBALL—Army vs. Navy

COLOR Cadets of Army vs. Navy Midshipmen at John F. Kennedy Stadium in Philadelphia. The two service academies have been battling each other annually since 1890. Army holds a 32-29-6 edge in the series, winning last year 20-7. The Cadets attack from a wing-T with a split end. Quarterback Steve Lindell, a passing-running threat, has spearheaded the squad's successful '67 campaign. Other key cadets: running backs Chuck Jarvis and Van Evans, and pass receivers Terry Young and Gary Steele. The Mid-dies, looking to log a winning mark for the season, have one of the East's top aerial combinations in quarterback John Cartwright and end Rob Taylor. At defensive end, Bill Dow is one of the best. Chris Schenkel, Bud Wilkinson and Bill Flemming report. Rosters are in the Close-up, page A-12. (Live)

SPECIAL COLOR "Wide World of Sports" is at ringside for a heavyweight elimination bout: Jimmy Ellis vs. Oscar Bonavena. Scored by points, the scheduled 12-rounder is telecast from Louisville. Howard Cosell reports. (Live; 90 min.)

Ellis, fighting in his home town, is fast and shifty. He has good combinations and a preference for striking early. (He has eight first-round KO's.) Once a sparring partner for Muhammad Ali, Ellis made the semis by stopping Leotis Martin.

Argentina's Ringo Bonavena relies on strength and aggressiveness. He has the edge in age and weight, but gives away height, reach and agility. In the quarter-finals, Oscar beat West German left-hander Karl Mildemberger.

MOVIE—Drama
9:00 6 7 8 9

This World War II prison-camp drama is not a story of escape—it is a tale of survival.

The war in Asia is nearing an end, but the British and American POWs in Singapore's Changi Prison are hardly aware of it. Demoralized by the Japanese, they are dirty, hungry and clothed in rags. All except Corporal King, who gets new uniforms and plenty of good food. How King obtains these privileges—and his relationship with the other prisoners—form the core of this 1965 drama.

Director Bryan Forbes adapted the screenplay from the novel by James Clavell. Music by John Barry.

CLOSE-UP NBC NEWS SPECIAL 10:00 4 10

"If I inspect my people and study them and criticize them, I must love them," writes Steinbeck, winner of Nobel and Pulitzer prizes. His narrative touches on civil rights, the affluent society, and the Nation's future, heritage, dreams and wonders.

Films, stills and animation show the land Steinbeck calls "complicated, paradoxical, bullheaded, cruel, shy, boisterous, unspeakably dear and very beautiful": New York City's Lower East Side, shrine of the immigrant; Washington, D.C.; historic Boston; elegant San Francisco; and the primeval beauty of California's redwood forests.

Original score by Norman Dello Jolo. Produced by Emmy and Peabody Award winner Lee Mendelson. Director: Tom Priestley ("The Louvre"). (60 min.)

CLOSE-UP

NET JOURNAL

is highly praised program, first telecast last year, takes a hard look at the odds against education in the slums.

In September 1966, New York University's Clinic for Learning entered the war on drop-outs. A rehabilitation program was started at a school in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant ghetto.

Interviews with the principal, the students and the Clinic's teachers reveal the wide gulf that separates slum children from education, and the extensive preparations (such as teaching the children what an education can be for them) that must be made before regular studies can begin.

Cameras in the classroom record the struggle to reach the students—teaching them how to communicate with their teacher and how to, and instilling a sense of discipline and self-respect. (Rerun; 60 min.)

Saint Joan

SPECIAL COLOR A star-studded cast performs this adaptation of George Bernard Shaw's lively, witty drama.

Shaw traces Joan of Arc's life from her first attempt to galvanize the cowardly Dauphin to action that might save France from the English.

But the play is not a reverent biography; it is a vehicle for stinging satiric jabs and a bitter comment on the frailty of men. "Forgive us, Joan," Shaw says, "We are not yet good enough for you." Shaw's caustic meaning is that men would burn a Joan today even as they once crucified Christ.

Produced and directed by George Schaefer ("Do Not Go Gentle into That Good Night"). Adapted by Robert Hartung, who adapted "Hallmark's" Emmy-winning "Magnificent Yankee." (Two hours)

Sit back and relax while Niagara Cyclo-Massage helps Melt Away Minor Aches, Pains, Everyday Tensions in Minutes

by Arthur Godfrey

When I tell you about the results you can expect from Niagara Cyclo-Massage, I am speaking from personal experience.

I've been using it for more than 7 years.

You've got to feel it to believe it

Nervous fatigue, tension, minor muscle aches and pains literally melt away while you just sit back and relax. That's what happens when Niagara's amazing Thermo-Cyclopad® goes to work with its unique combination of soothing heat and gentle, penetrating massage.

By using Niagara Cyclo-Massage daily, I find that my work load seems lighter. I sleep better, and fall asleep more quickly. It's a marvelous relaxer. It increases my blood circulation, too.

As you know, I've got two pretty badly banged-up legs which hurt a good deal of the time. And while Niagara Cyclo-Massage can't cure, it certainly helps to ease them. I'm told it also helps folks who suffer from the minor pains of Arthritis and Rheumatism, whenever they occur.

If you would like more information, just mail the post-paid card to me c/o Niagara. You'll receive by mail an illustrated 16-page color book, without obligation.

How Niagara Cyclo-Massage helps you feel better

- Eases everyday nervous tension.
- Promotes deep, restful sleep without drugs
- Relieves minor pain of sore, aching muscles and joints
- Increases blood circulation wherever applied
- Helps relieve minor pains of Arthritis and Rheumatism, whenever they occur.

More than 1,000,000 men and women have used Niagara Cyclo-Massage to help ease minor pain, relieve everyday tension, sleep better without drugs.

In 12 years of hospital testing, during which more than $1,000,000 was spent on research, this remarkable development was proven safe and effective in relieving minor discomfort of Arthritis and Rheumatism, whenever it occurs.

Its patented 3-way Cycloid Action® is a unique combination of up-and-down, circular and sideways massage, with extraordinary power to penetrate through body tissues right down into bones and joints.

Particularly beneficial for people over 40

Combined with soothing, controlled heat, this incredibly gentle yet penetrating massage helps ease daily tensions, relieve minor muscular and joint pains, and promote restful, drug-free sleep.

10:00 3 5 12 NATIONAL DRIVERS TEST

SPECIAL COLOR Last December, some 5000 people died on the highways—more than 800 on Christmas Day. The aim of this viewer-participation test, rerun from last May, is to produce survivors—instead of statistics.

Topics include . . . Winter driving: Can you cope with snow, ice and fog? Vacation driving: The hazards of highway hypnosis and falling asleep at the wheel. Safety features: A staged collision shows how seat belts and other devices can save your life. Sharing the road: Films show the problems posed by trailers, motorbikes and bicycles. Before you drive: Small but important points, such as adjusting your rear-view mirror.

Viewers will be able to compare their answers with those of other drivers. (Of last May's sample, 46 percent scored no better than 63 points—"poor." Can 63 points keep you alive this winter?) Hosts: Walter Cronkite and Mike Wallace. (Rerun; 60 min.)

CLOSE-UP

9:00 3 5 12 CBS PLAYHOUSE

Dear Friends

SPECIAL COLOR An all-star cast performs this taut drama of marital entanglements and social facades.

After 15 years of marriage, Michael and Lois Graves have decided to pack it in. No bitterness or tears; just a divorce. Their friends think it's childish. They invite the couple to dinner, where, blind to their personal motives, they hope to talk Mike and Lois out of splitting up. What they ultimately do to themselves is quite another story.

Created by the team responsible for the award-winning "Defenders" series: writer Reginald Rose, director Paul Bogart and producer Herbert Brodtkin. (Two hours)

JACK PAAR
9:00 4 10

SPECIAL COLOR The world's longest-running comedy is an endless extravaganza in which all of us star—the off-Broadway hit warmly called the human comedy. Among its greatest fans is Jack Paar.

For his fourth special, Paar again draws on the inexhaustible wealth of la comédie humaine to prove his contention that "truth is not only stranger than fiction—it is far funnier."

Paar wrote and produced this hour, which he calls "a funny 'Mondo Cane'; an adult Disneyland." It includes a monolog by Paar and a potpourri of film clips exploring human foibles the world over. The settings range from the U.S. and England to India and the South Pacific. Viewing thousands of feet of film, Paar found humor in the debuts of inventions, wedding ceremonies, early aviation, newscaster fluffs and gridiron goofs. (60 min.)

land's Glyndebourne Opera Festival. Films show on and off-stage highlights of Glyndebourne's 1967 season, including scenes from Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and the rarely performed "L'Ormino," by the 17th-century Italian Pietro Francesco Cavali. At Glyndebourne (a country estate in Sussex), everything but performance quality differs from traditional production of grand opera: audiences must travel 50 miles from London, performances begin at teatime and the patrons picnic in the fields during intermission. Glyndebourne's first director Carl Ebert is the host. Produced for NET by Filmline, Ltd. (60 min.)

3 5 12 CBS PLAYHOUSE

SPECIAL COLOR "Dear Friends," an original drama featuring an all-star cast. For details, see the Close-up opposite. (Two hours)

CLOSE-UP

9:00 3 5 12 MOVIE—Drama

Under Capricorn

COLOR For Alfred Hitchcock, famed director of the modern thriller, this film was a distinct change of pace.

The setting is Sydney, Australia, during 1831. Essentially a costume drama, the film derives its tension from a society woman's degeneration into alcoholism.

Ingrid Bergman (now on Broadway in Eugene O'Neill's "More Stately Mansions") plays the guilt-ridden Lady Henrietta Flusky, driven to liquor and haunted by the murder of her brother. Joseph Cotten plays her husband Sam, falsely convicted of the crime.

Veteran actor Hume Cronyn adapted the screenplay for this 1949 film.

CLOSE-UP

SPECIAL COLOR Joseph Wood Krutch, author, philosopher and "well-known desert rat," is the guide for this "American Profile" tour of Mexico's Baja California.

This 800-mile peninsula, with its wild and unspoiled beauty, is, Krutch says, "still almost as empty as it was when the white man first saw it." Cameras cover its rugged wilderness areas, and the tiny fishing villages and mining towns that punctuate its miles of untouched beaches and parched mountains. Also: a journey through the islands of the Sea of Cortez, a stop at the old mission town of San Ignacio, and a look at the area's wildlife and unique plant specimens.

Krutch's narrative is a blend of history, nature lore and the acquired wisdom of an inquiring mind.

Producer-director: Gerald Green, who teamed with Krutch for the highly praised "Grand Canyon" and "Voice of the Desert." (60 min.)

'MOTHER, MISS INDEPENDENCE HAS ANTS'

The Acting Thomases talk about TV, each other and the rest of the family

By Leslie Raddatz

When you are with the only father and daughter to star in their own television shows, it's best to let them do the talking. In fact, they—Danny Thomas (NBC's The Danny Thomas Hour) and daughter Marlo (ABC's That Girl)—won't let you do much else. They both love to talk, and their affection for one another is one of Hollywood's few genuine emotions. With outsiders, Marlo's ambitious, strong-willed. Danny's cocky, a tough showman. Together they're a couple of marshmallows. . . . So let's listen.

DANNY—Marlo was always a great storyteller. It's her heritage—her Lebanese heritage. My Uncle Tonoose—yes, there really was an Uncle Tonoose—was so funny, he was barred from funerals. He'd tell stories and get the mourners laughing.

MARLO—The only way to get to Daddy was with a good joke. You could never get to him offensively or defensively. You see, Daddy was raised in a father-dominated home, and that's the way our home was. We kids used to call him Orson because he was so dramatic. I remember once when he got angry, he strode to the foot of the staircase in his velvet smoking jacket and shouted, "I can't live this way!"

Of course, you could never shout at him—you just don't shout at Daddy. But when I wore a short skirt to rehearsal for his Christmas special and he started screaming, I said, "One of my guarantees is that you aren't allowed to scream at me. My agent put it in the deal."

Marlo's desire to be an actress and to go out on her own—move from the family home into an apartment—precipitated a crisis.

DANNY—At first her mother and I were against her acting. We were trying to shelter her. Sometimes parents do this selfishly, to save themselves the pain of seeing a child fail. My only fear was that she wouldn't be good enough. But she had absorbed her theatrical training at home, just as I did being a candy butcher in a burlesque theater.

MARLO—Of course, when I was a little girl, I sat on some pretty famous laps, too.

DANNY—I held the line on her moving out for a year or more.

MARLO—Finally, one night I went to him and said, "Are you in a good mood?" He called my mother and they told me I could move out. I never would have left without my parents' consent, but I have been Miss Independence since I was 5.

DANNY—The second day after she moved out, she called up and asked for her mother. I could tell by her voice that something was wrong, and I began to visualize all sorts of things. I said, "Honey, you can tell me—I'm your father." Marlo said, "There are ants in my apartment, and I want to ask Mother what to do about them." I turned from the phone and called to my wife, "Mother, Miss Independence has ants!"

There are two other Thomas children, younger than Marlo—Theresa, called Terry, and Tony.

MARLO—The other children don't seem quite as driven as I am.

DANNY—Tony has a combo, The Thomas Group, and is studying Theater Arts. He is 19, but he still asks me what time he should be in and calls me "sir." When I was his age, I was on top of a boxcar in the Rocky Mountains.

Terry is different from Marlo. She won't leave home until that certain → young man comes along and says to me, "Sir, may I speak to you in your study?"

There is possibly no one else in the United States except Danny Thomas who could say that with a straight face and mean every word of it—which should serve as fair warning for Terry's future suitors to check with Dad.

Danny's sentimentality, sometimes criticized, comes through in informal conversation and is just as sincere as the former burlesque-house candy butcher's vision of the polite young man's asking for his daughter's hand.

DANNY—There's so much love in our family it hurts. But the love has been well-spent. There is great respect in our family. Our motto is, "Blessed is he who knows why he was born."

MARLO—My father says everything as if it's going to be chiseled in granite. My sister and I are going to write a book about Daddy called "Life in the Vatican."

DANNY—I'm really not as religious as a lot of people think. Because of my great devotion to St. Jude, people think I'm more religious than I am. But we go to Mass every Sunday and receive Communion about once a month.

Marlo can sometimes be irreverent and speak lightly—although always affectionately—of her father, but again she can sound just like him.

MARLO—Your name is all you have. When I'm gone and all the film is burned, there'll be just a stone with my name on it.

DANNY—I must leave something that men can touch, feel and see. That is St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital [the hospital in Memphis for which Danny raised more than $6,000,000].

Probably the second crisis in Marlo Thomas's life—after the decision to leave home and become an actress—was the discovery that people would not accept her on her own merits.

MARLO—My father got me ready for a good world, and I expected a good world, a kind world. I started out pretty much a Pollyanna, but I soon discovered that I was being criticized. People were saying I wouldn't have gotten anywhere if it weren't for the fact I was Danny Thomas's daughter.

DANNY—Nobody said anything if I went to see Tony in a Little League game or Terry giving a piano recital. But when I went to see Marlo in a play, they'd say, "Oh, her father got her the job." I swear I had nothing to do with where she is today. In fact, recently, because of our anxiety to avoid any appearance of nepotism, some people even think there's antagonism between us.

MARLO—My parents came to London to see me when I opened in "Barefoot in the Park"—just as they did when I was in a play at Laguna Beach.

DANNY—When I go to see Marlo in a play, I sit on my hands so people won't think I'm starting the applause. But when she got nine curtain calls in London, I couldn't stand it any more. After the fifth one, Mother and I started applauding and then crying.

Although she has lived away from home for a number of years now, Marlo sees her father frequently.

MARLO—We have lunch together about once a week, and often in the evening Daddy will stop by for a cocktail on his way home. Neither of us drinks very much. After about two, we get giggly.

DANNY—Sometimes I'll call her and say, "Come over and we'll have some laughs."

MARLO—I don't spend so much time with him just because he's my father. We have fun together.

They certainly seem to.

Brilliantly colored, festive—who can resist a hot spicy Spanish-inspired punch and a slice of fruitcake while watching the parade of Christmas programs? This fruitcake requires no baking, just chilling, and it can be molded in tiny individual cups, a fancy mold or just a bowl, like a giant plum pudding.

MULLED SHERRY BERRY PUNCH

Serves 10 to 12

- | | |
|--|------------------------------|
| 4 cups (1 quart) cranberry juice cocktail | Rind of 1 lemon in one strip |
| 2 bottles (4/5 quart each) oloroso sherry | Juice of 1 orange |
| 12 sugar cubes | Juice of 1 lemon |
| Rind of 1 orange in one strip | 12 whole cloves |
| | 3 cinnamon sticks |
| | 3 whole nutmegs |

Combine all ingredients in a saucepan. Heat but do not boil. Let simmer 5 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes. Remove spices and pour into a punch bowl, using peels to garnish punch. Ladle into mugs and serve warm.

NO-BAKE FRUITCAKE

Makes one 2-quart bowl, 36 individual cakes or two 9x5x3-inch loaf pans

- | | |
|--|----------------------------|
| 6 cups graham cracker crumbs | 1 cup confectioner's sugar |
| 3/4 cup each pitted dates, pitted prunes and dried apricots,
ground coarsely | 1 cup orange marmalade |
| 1 cup each currants, chopped
walnuts; candied
mixed fruits | 1 tsp. ground nutmeg |
| | 1 tsp. ground cloves |
| | 1/2 cup melted butter |
| | 1/2 cup dark rum |

Combine all ingredients and mix until well blended. All crumbs should be moistened. Lightly oil bowl or other pan. Press mixture firmly into bowl. Cover and chill for 48 hours. Loosen edge and unmold. Cut into thin slices, wedges or fingers. Keep leftover cake wrapped in the refrigerator. Remove when ready to serve.

'Cabbage No. 1' of Canada and France becomes
SAINT JOAN
for a U.S. special

By Jon Ruddy

When Genevieve Bujold was named the star of a two-hour production of George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," to be screened this Monday, Dec. 4, on NBC's Hallmark Hall of Fame, she was asked whether she knew any of the other members of the cast. "Yes, I know Raymond Massey," she replied in her matter-of-fact way. "I used to watch him in Dr. Kildare."

Massey and the rest of the top-flight cast got to know Genevieve Bujold by watching her in the flesh—an impressive experience, as it turned out. "It's amazing that this childlike creature has such presence and polish," said Massey after the drama was taped in New York. Maurice Evans ("a great Joan of Arc, full of fire"), Roddy McDowall ("a tour de force . . . the rest of us were so much dressing") and James Daly ("She was the ideal choice") were equally chivalrous and enthusiastic.

Producer-director George Schaefer had picked the 25-year-old French-Canadian to play history's most compelling heroine even though Mlle. Bujold was almost unheard of in the U.S. "The thought that she gets into those eyes is extraordinary," he said. "She is a little angel. She'll be a household word in five years."

That is, in New York, Hollywood and Dubuque. The fact is that Genevieve Bujold (pronounced Zhon-uh-vyev Boo-zho) is already a household word in Montreal, where she was named actress of the year at the age of 21, and in Paris, where her fans probably outnumber De Gaulle's. Almost perfectly bilingual, she has performed mostly in French, because, she says with a Gallic shrug, "It seems that more exciting things are being done in French."

This jolie daughter of a Montreal bus driver received her early education in a convent. At 16 she auditioned successfully for Montreal's prestigious Conservatory of Music and Dramatic Art. In 1961, she dropped out two months before graduation to play in a professional repertory production of "Le Barbier de Seville." "I thought, what is a diploma but a scrap of paper?" she says. "So I left."

She hasn't had time to look back. Artistically, Genevieve came of age with Quebec. She is a part of the great flowering of French-Canadian culture that resulted in, among other things, Expo 67. In Montreal she worked in as many as four media—radio, television, film and the stage—in a single day. In Toronto she appeared in some English-language roles on the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The CBC, to some, is an enormously inefficient public network with several redeeming features, most notably a penchant for producing a lot of good television drama. Thus, in French—and English, in Molière, Shakespeare, Ibsen, Anouilh, the young actress honed her talent in Canada before plunging into the international big time.

Undeniably, Genevieve had a lot going for her besides talent and experience. Her looks are as internationally appealing as sex and French-fried potatoes. A leggy gamin with a mouth like a tulip and huge dark eyes, she radiates warmth and a certain imponderable sadness, like an abandoned bonfire.

Early in 1965, Genevieve made a tour of France and Russia with a Montreal repertory company, playing, among other roles, Puck in "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Her photograph appeared in France-Soir and caught the eye of Alain Resnais, who had directed such important New Wave films as "Hiroshima, Mon Amour" and "Last Year at Marienbad." Resnais gave her a screen test and hired her for his next movie.

The part was Nadine in "La Guerre Est Finie," Nadine being a French teen-ager who has an affair with a Spanish revolutionary, played by Yves Montand. Genevieve went on to make several more movies in Canada and France, most notably "The Thief of Paris," with Jean-Paul Belmondo. Elle magazine proclaimed that she was "the girl for today." Fans in France declared that she was their chouchou numéro un, which loses something in the translation. She remained, of course, Cabbage Number One in Montreal too.

George Schaefer, looking for a fresh young actress to play Saint Joan, spotted Genevieve in "La Guerre Est Finie." He thought she looked exactly right for the part but assumed she couldn't speak English. Nevertheless he reached her by phone, and she told him about her background in English-language drama on the CBC. Schaefer was delighted. Before they met, Genevieve bought and studied a copy of Shaw's play. "I knew the story but I had never read it," she says. "I soon discovered that it was what I wanted to do most in the world at this time."

Genevieve's current home is a pleasant old house in a quiet district of Toronto. Her second husband is Paul Almond, who is a CBC producer and, to nobody's surprise, Genevieve's biggest fan. "She is practically a goddess," he says. "I'm constantly learning from her. I'm sure she'll be a superstar, if that's what she wants."

That's what she wants—and on her own terms. She said no to a two-year contract from

Italian producer Vittorio Baldi. "They give you that and then they leave you sitting on the shelf," she says. She insists she will not consider a TV series. "Never. I mean it." Genevieve's plan is to carefully pick her roles in films, on TV and the stage. "I have worked hard for what I have, and I am a very ambitious girl."

After his
experience,
if Ralph Taeger is fed up with acting...

HE CAN ALWAYS GO BACK TO POLISHING FLOORS

By Burt Prelutsky

When I first walked on the set of Hondo, Ralph Taeger was sitting on the porch of the Fort Lowell general store. Along with Gary Clarke, who plays Captain Richards, a few extras and several technicians, he was plotting a series of practical jokes to pull on an apprentice script girl named Elaine.

"She's a real cat," Taeger explains. The others nod in agreement. While Taeger sends a flunky after a bucket of water, a few of the boys tell anecdotes, relating in anguished detail how a little 20-year-old girl has managed to stay one-up in the practical-joke department.

When the water arrives, Taeger and Clarke initiate the first stage of the campaign. They spot Elaine walking behind a stagecoach.

"Now?" Clarke asks.

"Now," General Taeger replies.

Clarke jumps up and starts running toward the rear of the coach, with Taeger, bucket in hand, in close pursuit. Clarke is yelling, "No, Ralph, no" at the top of his lungs. Clarke runs around the rear of the coach and safely back up the other side just as Taeger lets go with the water, nearly drowning the unfortunate girl.

Back on the porch, a grinning Taeger looks at his watch. "Let's see, it's 10 A.M. By 6 P.M. she'll have a nervous breakdown."

Taeger lights up a Sherman, a thin brown cigaret that costs 85 cents a pack, while he contemplates the second phase of Operation Elaine. "You've got to raise a little hell on the set or you'll go nuts."

During the next hour and a half, hell-raiser Taeger will stick tacks on her chair and saw the legs off her stool, until finally, in tears, she runs off the set.

When I later related this story to Lou Larkin, he said, "Ralph must have liked that girl Elaine."

To my look of astonishment, Larkin, a magazine feature writer who helped Taeger get started in Hollywood, replied, "He has a peculiar reverence for women. I've known Ralph for 10 years and I've never known him to say an unkind word about any woman. He considers every woman a lady."

Peculiar reverence is right! But it's exactly this quality, this boyish ingenuousness, that will, if anything, make Taeger into a star. He's a grown-up Huck Finn, fun-loving, slightly delinquent, occasionally feisty. He is tall, handsome, muscular and sounds like a hayseedy Humphrey Bogart. Why, up to now, he has never made it big in Hollywood is something of a mystery.

His first TV series was Klondike. Richard Donovan, who was story editor on the show, recalls, "Ralph was always a nice guy, but he had a lot of trouble memorizing scripts. The thing was, Ralph was stupid. He was a decent guy, but so dumb. He was in way over his head. He thought he was a star. What a racket!—a guy walks in off the street and he's a star. But I found him generally likable, almost pathetically willing to cooperate, and increasingly puzzled—like a man fighting paper dragons.

"Larry Dobkin, who was directing, couldn't stand working with this green kid. I remember he was always riding Ralph, until one day Ralph turned on him. He chased Larry all over the set, and I think if he had caught him, he'd have killed him."

Dobkin doesn't remember it exactly that way. "We were both new at our jobs, and there was a misunderstanding. Ralph literally didn't know what hit him at the time. It was one thing to want to be an actor—another thing to work 14 hours a day, five days a week; to spend your weekends doing promotions for the show; to be pursued by girls and women. He was in a fair way to become a most easily spooked actor if the show had gone on."

In midseason Klondike became Acapulco. The change of title and locale didn't help. It didn't last the 1959-60 season. Since then Taeger has been under a succession of studio contracts and has made a few movies—most notably "The Carpetbaggers" and "A House Is Not a Home."

Until Hondo sold, he was keeping busy waxing floors and washing windows for his Bronco Maintenance Service, a Los Angeles janitorial service he formed between pictures. In fact, he says, "I was back home in Walden, New York, visiting my family, and I had made up my mind that if Hondo didn't go, I was planning to stay in Walden and go into the maintenance business with my brother."

It sounds unlikely to a skeptical stranger, but as Taeger, 31, tells it: "When you go into acting, you → make a commitment. But it's wrong to waste your whole life justifying that commitment, when you could be successful in some other field. Of course it took me nine or 10 years to realize that. Slow thinker."

Larkin, who probably knows Taeger better than anyone outside Walden, is of the opinion that Taeger was talking straight: "I remember, even before Klondike, Ralph's telling me that if the industry didn't accept him, he'd go back to polishing floors."

Despite Larkin's opinion, Taeger didn't quite reach for the nearest mop when Hondo was canceled by ABC in early November. An executive on the show said the actor seemed stunned by the news and left for a trip in his camper about the time of the announcement—but only after inquiring around the studio about possible picture roles.

One thing is certain. He won't return to those days when, according to Larkin, Taeger was hungry enough to pass himself off as a health inspector so he could walk into restaurant kitchens, "flash some kind of phony card, and go from food to food, inspecting a chicken leg here, a lamb chop there."

When Hondo was sold, Taeger went back to L.A., taking with him his new bride, Linda. A YWCA activities director from Newburgh, N.Y., she's tall and blonde, friendly, but not flashy. "I may have seen Ralph on TV, but not that I remember. I did see 'A House Is Not a Home.' But the movie was depressing and I didn't like it. Frankly I don't remember anyone in it."

It must be love.

"For a long time I couldn't get any work because people had hung a label on me as uncooperative," Taeger says. "But I'm not; it's just that I say what I think, and sometimes that rubs folks the wrong way."

Donovan has a different theory: "It wasn't all Ralph's fault that Klondike was a flop. No one at Ziv knew how to make a good show; they only knew how to make Highway Patrol."

Hondo's producer, Andrew Fenady, has still a different idea. "He's not out of the cooky cutter. He's distinctive. MGM wanted to give him dramatic lessons, and I told them, don't mess with the way he walks or talks. It's just a matter of framing him properly, giving him lines to speak that he can handle, and surrounding him on-camera with the right sort of people."

What sort of guy is Taeger? He's a likable guy who likes band music better than any other kind, who enjoys working out constantly with weights, running on the beach, playing tennis and bum practical jokes. It's a boy's life and a boy's tastes. For instance, when asked to name his favorite writers, he thought for a long time and then could come up with only one: "Jack London." Why? "He's a good, simple American writer." True, London was good and was American. But simple? In a sense; in the way that Twain and Hemingway were simple. Not too many big words, nothing too fancy. Boys can read London and like him, but it takes a man to fully appreciate him and the questions he raises about survival and fate and man's will.

When most TV actors are asked how they feel, appearing in a series like Hondo, they usually say something along the lines of: "It's great. Our show has something for the entire family. We're not doing Shakespeare, but I really love the show. Even if I weren't starring, I'd be sure to stay home and watch it every week." Well, they're lying. As a rule, dull and tasteless as they themselves may be, they're aware of the fact that their show is a piece of cheese. But when Ralph Taeger, a good simple American soul, says it, I'm afraid you'd better believe him. (END)

Answer to last week's puzzle

TV Teletype: New York

NEIL HICKEY REPORTS:

Today on Christmas Day will be a two-hour special on The Cloisters, Manhattan's medieval museum. The New York Pro Musica choral group will provide background music for the tour of art treasures . . . ABC has decided on Feb. 21 as the date for its "Hatful of Rain" drama, and March 10 for "The Voice of the Turtle." Those two old theatrical stand-bys are being especially adapted for TV.

HOWARD K. SMITH, says ABC, will be sole anchor man for all of its 1968 election-year coverage, starting with the March New Hampshire primaries. He teamed with EDWARD P. MORGAN in 1964, but MORGAN has since gone to the Public Broadcast Laboratory . . . DEAN MARTIN will have BOB NEWHART, KEELY SMITH and RUSS TAMBLYN with him on Jan. 18.

FRANK SINATRA will be emcee at the Hollywood end for NBC's May 26 broadcast of the Television Academy's Emmy Awards . . . Discovery producer JULES POWER (ABC) has completed his "How Life Begins" program about a childbirth at New York's Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospitals, to be telecast early next year; now he's working on "A Sense of Wonder," based on RACHEL CARSON's book about a child's exposure to nature.

LANA TURNER and JACK JONES will be on JERRY LEWIS's Jan. 9 show . . . CBS's broadcast of the Cotton Bowl Festival Parade on Jan. 1 will feature JACK LINKLETTER and MARILYN VAN DERBUR as narrators (10:30-11:30 A.M., ET). Both CBS and NBC will cover the Tournament of Roses Parade later the same day (although only NBC will telecast the Rose Bowl game). The Grand Marshal for the Roses Parade is Sen. EVERETT MCKINLEY DIRKSEN of Illinois, who prefers marigolds.

Golfer JACK NICKLAUS stashed his clubs long enough to go tarpon fishing in Nicaragua for ABC's American Sportsman, and DAVID JANSSEN will try to shoot a lion in Africa . . . "Christmas in the Holy Land" will be a CBS News special on Dec. 26, as part of HARRY REASONER's Who, What, When, Where, Why series.

HARRY BELAFONTE fills in for JOHNNY CARSON on The Tonight Show for a week early in '68 . . . MICHELE LEE will be on ED SULLIVAN's Feb. 4 outing, after she closes at the Plaza's Persian Room . . . NBC's Great Explorations series, with former astronaut JOHN GLENN as host, opens Jan. 11 with the story of Stanley's search for Dr. Livingstone. It was filmed on location in Africa.

March 14 is the air date for the NBC Children's Theatre production of "The Enormous Egg," a story about a boy and his dinosaur. Amateur performers will have the main roles, but a pair of old NBC hands, ED McMAHON and FRANK BLAIR, will play a senator and a TV commentator respectively.
